Subject Index

Advertising
Attitudes toward advertising among fellows of the American Academy of Ophthalmology: 1988, 144

Aphakia
Artificial tears
Effects of ophthalmic solutions on light transmission through hydrogel lenses, 114
Extended wear RGP lenses for aphakia, 195

Astigmatism
Effect of recipient lamellar keratectomy on corneal topography in penetrating keratoplasty, 306
Fluoroperm® extended wear RGP CLs: II. Front Toric Fitting, 53

Atopy
Eosinophil granule major basic protein in CLs of Patients with GPC, 219

Bandage contact lenses
See therapeutic contact lenses

Bifocal contact lenses
Clinical evaluation of three bifocal CLs, 203
Management of presbyopia with CLs, 33

Books reviewed
Current Ocular Therapy, 168

Computer assistance
Computer assistance in keratoconus lens design, 262

Concanavalin A
Concanavalin A to competitively inhibit P. aeruginosa adherence to corneal epithelium, 223

Collagen shields
Collagen shield treatment of epithelial defects following keratoplasty, 95

Confocal microscopy
Confocal microscopy of the living eye, 65

Contact lenses (CLs)
Clinical evaluation of three bifocal CLs, 203
Computer assistance in keratoconus lens d esign, 262
CL materials: A critical review, 287
Contrast sensitivity in extended wear of the Boston IV lens, 276
Corneal infiltrates associated with disposable extended wear soft CLs, 269
Disposable CLs vs. CL maintenance for e xtended wear, 184
Effects of ophthalmic solutions on light transmission through hydrogel lenses, 114
Effects of sighting and sensory dominance on monovision high and low contrast visual acuity, 299
Extended wear RGP lenses for aphakia, 195
Fluoroperm® extended wear RGP CLs: II. Front Toric Fitting, 53
Immunoglobulin deposition on Soft CLs, 43
Management of presbyopia with CLs, 33
Microbial keratitis, corneal ulceration, and therapeutic CLs, 49
Patient compliance in a CL-wearing population, 209
Pseudostrabismus secondary to use of cosmetic contact lenses, 302
Rigid CL decentration: A risk factor for corneal warpage, 177
Rigid gas permeable CLs, 129
Scanning electron microscopy of deposits in soft CL polishing marks, 214
Surface deposits on high water content hydrogels, 121
Tear volume, contact lens wear and age, 57
Therapeutic CLs, 137
Tight lens syndrome with extended wear CLs, 308
Ultraviolet radiation for the sterilization of CLs, 294
Use of gas permeable CLs following trabeculectomy, 282

Contact Lens Association of Ophthalmologists (CLAO)
Back to the future: CLAO long-range planning, 87

Contact lens materials
CL materials: A critical review, 287

Contrast sensitivity
Contrast sensitivity in extended wear of the Boston IV lens, 276

Cornea/external disease
Personality and keratoconus, 62
Tear volume, CL wear, and age, 57

Cornea/tear film
Collagen shield treatment of epithelial defects following keratoplasty, 95
Comparison of diagnostic tests for keratoconjunctivitis sicca: Lactoplate, Schirmer, and tear osmolarity, 109
Keratometry in children, 99

Corneal disease
Concanavalin A to competitively inhibit P. aeruginosa adherence to corneal epithelium, 223
Eosinophil granule major basic protein in CLs of Patients with GPC, 219
Patient compliance in a CL-wearing population, 209

Corneal infiltrates
Corneal infiltrates associated with disposable extended wear soft CLs, 269

Corneal topography
Rigid CL decentration: A risk factor for corneal warpage, 177
Effect of recipient lamellar keratectomy on corneal topography in penetrating keratoplasty, 306

Corneal ulcers
Microbial keratitis, corneal ulceration, and therapeutic CLs, 49

Corneal warpage
Rigid CL decentration: A risk factor for corneal warpage, 177

Cromolyn sodium
Effects of ophthalmic solutions on light transmission through hydrogel lenses, 114

Deposits
Scanning electron microscopy of deposits in soft CL polishing marks, 214
Surface deposits on high water content hydrogels, 121

Disposable contact lenses
Corneal infiltrates associated with disposable extended wear soft CLs, 269
Disposable CLs vs. CL maintenance for extended wear, 184
